Rochester Starts 'Operation Special Alert'

By Jean Perry

If you live in Rochester and have a family member who has a tendency to wander, has a developmental or cognitive disability, with or without a speech impairment or is non-verbal, with the potential for requiring unique assistance in the event of an emergency, Rochester's Chief Dispatcher Tracy Eldridge says she needs your assistance with establishing the town's "Operation Special Alert" system.

Rochester residents with developmental and cognitive disabilities, and their parents and caregivers, will soon have a safeguard in place with first responders to ensure special accommodations can be provided during an emergency response situation. But before the voluntary program can be fully implemented, Eldridge is seeking input from parents and caregivers on what type of information to request on a standard form that residents will use to register with the program.

In addition to the basic demographic information, the goal of the program is to collect pertinent information about the resident that will help first responders endure the safety of the person in distress at the address.

For example, a child or an adult with autism living at a specific address may have sensory sensitivities to light or sound; knowing this will help emergency response staff react accordingly, perhaps by turning off sirens and lights before arrival. If the resident is also non-verbal or does not respond when their name is called, this vital information can assist first responders in ensuring the safety of the resident in the case of an emergency situation.

In addition to providing crucial information about the diagnosis and characteristics of the resident, any tendencies of wandering away from the home can be noted in the file so that if a wandering event should happen, emergency staff could find information on file about the topography of the land near the residence, any water sources nearby that may attract the child or adult that has gone missing, and any history of wandering by the person so police might know where to begin searching first.

"The fact that they wander, we want to know," said Eldridge during a phone interview on May 2. "Are they attracted to water? It's very important if we were to have a missing child and that child was a child with special needs ... and not able to speak to us. If we call their name, are they going to respond to us?"

If a parent of an autistic child calls the communication center, Eldridge said, she wants that parent to know that dispatch has the important information on file that is needed in order to best inform the responders.

Back in March, Eldridge attended a training put on by the Massachusetts State Police, the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, and the nonprofit organization Autism Speaks that provided tools to implement a program such as Operation Special Alert within the community. Eldridge said a recent incident was the impetus to get the ball rolling with the program.

A caregiver had contacted the communication center in Rochester and asked if there was a way to flag their address as the home of someone who was cognitively impaired and non-verbal.

"Later, a silent 911 call was received, and it indicated a police and ambulance response based on the medical history of the home the person provided," said Eldridge. The person made the call but could not speak, but the information about the residence popped up on the screen, and the information was transmitted to the emergency responders. "An appropriate dispatch was made and a true medical emergency was happening at the home," said Eldridge. "It worked."

This is the kind of response Eldridge said she hopes the Operation Special Alert will provide the town.

Eldridge is hoping that caregivers, specialists, or parents will contact her to join her for a meeting to gather input on what type of information the form should request.

"There's things that I may not know or understand and they may be able to point me in the right direction," said Eldridge.

She is shooting for the third week of May.

"Then I'm going to be putting together a training for both the police and emergency responders," Eldridge said. Both the police and fire chiefs have been informed Traveling from Braintree to be with Nick and to help present the gift was Cops for Kids with Cancer Chairman Robert Faherty, a retired Boston Police officer. Present from the Mattapoisett Police Officer's Association were Officers Turner Ryan, Adalberto Cardoso, Nicholas Lorenzo, and Kyle Pavao.

At the age of 9, Nick was diagnosed with brain cancer, his mother Alison Isherwood shared. The disease would eventually rob Nick of his eyesight, but not his spirit. His story was brought to the attention of the Mattapoisett Police Department, which has worked with Cops for Kids with Cancer for the last several years.

Cops for Kids with Cancer is a nonprofit organization started by one police officer, John Dow, of the Boston Police Department. Dow's personal health issues inspired him to help children suffering from cancer and their families, as he recognized the financial burden heaped on families dealing with a cancer diagnosis.

Dow, along with fellow police officers, began fundraising in an effort to provide these families with a bit of financial relief. Dow has since passed away, but his work continues, Faherty said.

"There are lots of charities out there that give money to hospitals or research centers, but our organization gives money directly to the families," Faherty said. Since 2003, the organization has been able to help 450 families with checks in the amount of $5,000.

By partnering with local and state police organizations throughout New England, the group conducts fundraising events. Faherty said, "Ninety percent of all monies raised is passed along to families," said Faherty.

The Mattapoisett Police Officer's Association held a fundraising golf tournament in October, and the proceeds of that event went towards the gift to Claudio.

The association also supports such organizations and activities as Gifts to Give, the Halloween Parade, annual student scholarships, and Breakfast with Santa.

As for Nick, he has high aspirations for the future.

"I'll maybe do something in law or study political science," said Claudio.

Isherwood said, years ago, when she sat down with the principal of Old Hammondtown School, she was pleasantly surprised to find herself surrounded by a team prepared to provide her son with the educational services and support he needed to stay in the school system.

That has clearly paid off.

Nick is a student of merit. He is a member of the Junior National Honor Society and currently on the honor roll at ORRHs.

On this day, as he was surrounded by retired and active duty police officers, he no doubt felt their warmth and generosity as he thanked each for the big check. It was also very apparent that the officers were moved by Nick's bravery.

Election Candidates Face Marion Voters

By Jean Perry

Marion residents have plenty of choices when they head to the polls on Friday, May 13, for the Annual Town Election.

Voters who packed themselves into the League of Women Voters candidate's night at the Marion Music Hall on April 28 got to hear more about each candidate's priorities and what has driven them to run for a new board or re-election to a current seat, with reasons ranging from the uncertainty of the wastewater treatment plant to stunted commercial development and ways to encourage more businesses to come to Marion.

Vying for the one seat on the Board of Selectmen, Stephen Gonsalves and Norm Hills – both current members of the Planning Board and Conservation Commission – agree that making Marion more attractive to businesses to expand the tax base for the town is crucial, as is finding solutions to the on-going and imminent impact the outdated wastewater treatment plant will have on the town's finances.

Gonsalves said during his opening remarks that in addition to the aging sewer system and the lack of commercial development, deteriorating roads, a lack of senior housing, rising sewer and water rates, and town buildings in need of repair were at the top of the list for important town issues.

"We need a leader with good judgment and a no-nonsense approach," said Gonsalves. "As a selectman, I will have the ability to get this done." He cited his communication and listening skills as strengths.

Gonsalves is a business owner of a local garden and landscaping business in Marion.

Hills said the town has some "daunting challenges" ahead, and he has proven leadership skills with his volunteerism on various boards and his helping found a number of entities in town such as the Energy Management Committee and Capital Improvement Planning Committee.

It's about dedication and preparation, Hills said about his run for selectman. "It's not learn-as-you-go..." he said. "It requires knowledge of the town...."

Hills said cleaning up the zoning bylaws would help with efficiency in permitting processes for businesses and construction, and with a history as a mechanical engineer with the U.S. Navy, he understands the importance of details and teamwork.

In response to a question about a solution for the wastewater treatment conundrum, Gonsalves said the idea of a regionalized system was appealing, but it lies further down the road. He also mentioned extending the discharge pipe further outside the cove, an option the town has been exploring with its consulting engineer.

"Do I have all the answers? No," said Gonsalves. "It's pretty complex..."

Hills stated that there was no simple answer to the question.

"Nobody knows which is the most cost-effective," said Hills. The town doesn't need the whole 20 acres of lagoon, though, he said, referring to a recent meeting he attended on the matter. "[It's] still being evaluated ... I wish I could give you an answer at this time, but I can't."

One thing that should be addressed, he added, was removing the role of Sewer Commission from the Board of Selectmen to establish an elected Board of Sewer Commissioners, calling it an important step towards appropriate checks and balances.

As far as continuing education, in response to the question, Gonsalves said, although he doesn't have a background in sewer and water, "I will have a lot of

He said his recent attendance at a wastewater-related meeting had his head spinning.

Hills said his mechanical engineering experience has him understanding some of what is going on, and he has attended various trainings in Worcester as a member of both the Planning Board and Conservation Commission and is familiar with state laws and local bylaws.

In closing, the two men had one minute to speak.
"I'm a man who loves his town and its people," said Gonsalves. "I'm fair and not afraid to speak up ... [and] will fight to keep Marion a vibrant, charming town for the years to come..."

Hills told voters, "A closed mind gathers no new ideas..."

"We need to plan for the future because that's where we're going to spend the rest of our lives..." said Hills.

There are five candidates vying for two seats on the Planning Board: incumbent Jerry "Rico" Ferrari (not present that night), newcomer William do Carmo, current Selectman Jonathan Henry, Stephen Kokkins (who is hoping to return to the Planning Board after losing his seat last year), and newcomer William Saltonstall.

Do Carmo, self-proclaimed "man in tan with a plan," said he doesn't "take fools lightly."

"I deal with issues, not people." He said the lack of leadership in the town needs to end; people aren't speaking up, and "people are living in fear."

"People have to face the realities of life, and we have to deal with things..." Do Carmo stated.

Do Carmo boasted of his accomplishments on the municipal level in New Bedford especially, as well as in the other five New England states. He told voters they had to "take the bull by the horns and do things."

"Change is coming down the pike," he said, "Stop fighting and get this thing done," he said of the wastewater treatment plant. At one point, he assured the town that he was not being rude when he said things like the town was not getting things done, and that there are "some problems in town that [people] don't want to face..."

"I'm just being honest with everybody..." he said before throwing his support behind fellow candidate Saltonstall. "We need some new blood in ... so I will make it public: you have my vote..."

Henry said he was leaving the Board of Selectmen because he had a goal, and that goal was met. As the town's representative and commission chairman for SRPEDD, he says he has a lot of experience in planning.

"I would like to bring a level playing field to the board," said Henry, bringing up the discord among members that is common during Planning Board meetings. "I see it as a leadership challenge.... When there's disrespect and second-guessing and out and out misrepresentation of facts, I think that needs to stop."

The cost of living, the cost of balancing the budget, Henry said, is difficult for the average Marion family. "We need to take steps to spread that load out, and business should be able to come here and assume a larger portion..." He said it is disingenuous to say 'mom and pop' stores can do that.

"They don't exist anymore. We have to develop a plan ... to allow more businesses to apportion the cost of running the town." He later said expediting permits and streamlining the permitting process, along with adjusting the zoning bylaws to be in proportion to the sizes of the projects, are possible solutions.

Kokkins, a professional engineer of 45 years, said he is eager to return. The zoning code, the Master Plan, streamlining the permitting process, and creative zoning for senior housing opportunities were all important issues to him.

"I support appropriately-sized businesses," he said.

"[We have to] not just streamline the permitting process but have a better way of relaying the scrutiny," said Kokkins. Smaller businesses should be subjected to "a much smaller set of requirements than a larger business," he added, "And the regulation [should] be in proportion to the size and effect of the business."

Regionalization is one way to go pertaining to wastewater, he said, and respect for fellow board members, as well as special permit applicants, are critical.

Saltonstall won the audience over (in laughter) with his plan to "make Marion great again" and build a great wall around the town. "And to top it all off, I'm gonna make CVS pay for the whole thing."

On a serious note, he said he wants to serve the town and make a positive impact with the help of his experience as an architect in town.

"I have a strong understanding of the process," he said. He later added, "Common sense, historic preservation, and growth are not mutually exclusive." The town could expedite permits, and limit them by scale and design, "not by brand." Thoughtful review of projects is needed, "without compromising what is unique about our town."

For Board of Health, 23-year incumbent Albin Johnson, one of the founding members of the BOH, said septic systems were the major problem back when he was first elected. Now, he said, "I'm concerned about the health of the harbor ... that's been one of my main concerns and primary focuses in the town." Stormwater run-off is a factor in that, he said.

Along with stormwater issues, he wants to work closer with the Council on Aging, "because the majority of the complaints I'm seeing ... are housing complaints and stormwater complaints from neighbors and that seems to be the biggest problem right now."

Jason Reynolds served on the BOH for 2.5 years starting in 2007. A pediatric doctor, Reynolds said he has finished with a leadership position at Boston Children's Hospital and is ready to make the town's health his focus once again, making sanitary living conditions and protecting the environment his goals.

"Title 5 is no longer the threat that it used to be," he said. Infectious diseases like Lyme disease, the opioid epidemic, pollution, and emergency preparedness, along with the sale of flavored tobacco in town, are priorities.

"I will make sure that the board is proactively involved in protecting the health and wellbeing of residents of Marion," Reynolds said. "One of the main reasons why I ran this year is because I believe it's important the town has a choice.... This year, there is a choice."

Running for re-election to the Open Space Acquisition Commission are Randy Parker and John Rockwell, with Jerry "Rico" Ferrari (not present that evening) vying for one of the two available seats this year.

Parker said he is seeking reelection, "To try and make some improvements so that everybody who would like to use the open spaces has access..."

MOSAC has been Rockwell's favorite role as a member of a town entity, he said. "I've always had the same priority: Let's keep Marion a great town to live in."

The election is on Friday, May 13. The polling station is at the VFW Hall on Route 6, and polls are open from 8:00 am to 8:00 pm.

Rochester Celebrates Arbor Day with Planting By Jean Perry

They say the best time to plant a tree was 20 years ago; the second best time is now.

The Town of Rochester's Town Administrator Michael McCue led a small gathering on April 29 – marking Arbor Day and the town's first Arbor Day as a Tree City USA, as recognized by the Arbor Day Foundation – and they celebrated by planting ten Leyland cypress trees at the police station.

McCue, who is stepping down to take the position of town administrator for the Town of Hanson, said he would like to see someone else in town pick up the responsibility of representing the town on Arbor Day every year as a Tree City USA.

"I hope that somebody in town is able to continue that tradition," McCue said. "It's a sort of nice, feel-good tradition."

Representative William Straus attended the assembly, saying, "I think it's a great thing that Rochester stepped up on Arbor Day.... Rochester is the most rural of the towns that I represent, so it's kind of nice that Rochester stepped forward."

Maria Connor from Senator Michael Rodrigues' office attended on his behalf, congratulating Rochester for the good job it is doing and thanking the town.

Along with Selectmen Naida Parker and Brad Morse, Police Chief Paul Magee and some members of the Rochester Historic District Commission were in attendance for the tree dedication.

McCue pointed out that the Historic District Commission had requested in the past that some natural screening be added at the police station to eventually hide the gas tank installed on the property. The ten trees do just that.

McCue also said he would make good on his promise to donate one of his gingko tree saplings that was grown from a Japanese gingko tree that survived the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, and he hopes to fulfill that promise during a gathering sometime in the fall when the sapling is ready for planting.

McCue again thanked the town for its support while he was town administrator for the past almost two years.

"It's been a pleasure to work for the board," said McCue, offering his continued help during the town's transition to the next town administrator. He said he would also fulfill his commitment to represent the Town of Rochester on June 15 at the Department and Conservation and Recreation Tree City, Tree Campus, and Tree Line USA Forum and Awards Ceremony at College of the Holy Cross in Worcester.

Selectmen Hear Options for Wastewater Future

Marion Board of Selectmen

By Jean Perry

Results from a wastewater treatment study the town contracted CDM Smith to undertake suggest that septic systems in the region of Aucoot Cove contribute more to nitrogen pollution in the cove than the three unlined sludge lagoons at the wastewater treatment facility, with 31% and only 2%, respectively.

The data from the study suggests a prior study by the Buzzards Bay Coalition, of which the Environmental Protection Agency derived its data for the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination Systems (NPDES) permit, was wrong in its analysis of the lagoons.

"The lagoons don't leak as much as the analysis suggests," said Bernadette Kluft of CDM Smith on May 3 at the Marion Board of Selectmen meeting.

Kluft broke down the sources of nitrogen pollution in the cove, including agriculture/cranberry bogs in the vicinity (27%), undeveloped land (21%), and residential fertilizer use (9%), with the lagoons being the least polluting.

"Removal of lagoon nitrogen load would have an insignificant impact on the overall nitrogen load to Aucoot Cove," reads the report.

Good news, say selectmen.

Furthermore, CDM Smith representatives say they have met with the EPA and were pleased to report that the EPA is willing to work with the Town of Marion to allow consideration for the suggested options for reducing pollution and meeting the NPDES permit pollutant limits – options other than eliminating the lagoons entirely, which would have forced the town to redesign and upgrade its entire wastewater treatment plant.

A study on eelgrass in the cove was also in the town's favor, with data – including satellite imaging and aerial photographs dating back to 1988 – showing that the cove never was a viable habitat for eelgrass.

"Based on the available data," the report states, "...the lack of evidence of eelgrass suggests that eelgrass would be a poor metric for interpreting the environmental health of Inner Aucoot Cove between Haskell Island and the salt marsh."

As for viable solutions, the engineering firm conducted an analysis on the sludge lagoons and an outfall study.

The analysis done on the sludge lagoons and the plant itself show that only ten of the 20 acres is actually needed to effectively run the plant. The finding suggests the town could line the two five-acre lagoons and decommission the third and potentially re-purpose it as a constructive wetland.

"This is not technology that is widely used in New England," said Kluft, "so it would need to be piloted.... But it's a very green solution..."

The outfall study came up with four alternative routes to extend the outfall point further out into deeper water at Aucoot Cove. Another approach would be to discharge through land disposal, which would require transporting the treated effluent water to another area and into the ground, although Kluft said this part of the feasibility study was only in the very preliminary stage.

She said there are some undeveloped tracts of land that could accommodate this option, an option that is appealing because it would no longer require a NPDES permit from the EPA, but rather a groundwater discharge permit from the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection.

Kluft said the EPA looked favorably on the selectmen's action to acquire a grant to work in partnership with Mattapoisett to study the feasibility of connecting residences in that area to Marion's municipal sewer service, which could potentially reduce the nitrogen load that septic systems currently contribute to pollution in the cove by 60%.

"They (the EPA) see that," said Kluft. "There's nothing better you can do ... than sewer those homes."

The town's recent option to explore regionalizing wastewater treatment with the Towns of Plymouth, Wareham, Carver, and Bourne, and also with Mass Maritime Academy, also appealed to the EPA.

Kluft said the EPA would consider entering an administrative consent order with the town to agree to terms for the NPDES permit and an attainable timeline, as well.

What are the potential costs of four viable options for the town laid out by the engineers?

Option 1, which would comply with the NPDES permit as written, entails the reduction in ten acres of the sludge lagoons, re-purposing the one 10-acre lagoon into a constructive wetland, transporting sludge offsite and using the existing outfall, ranges from $15 million to $18.1 million.

Option 2, which includes extending the outfall to the head of the salt marsh and lining ten acres of lagoons, was estimated at $15.7 million to $22.4 million; with the ten acres of constructive wetlands included in the project, $14.3 million to $17.2 million.

Option 3, which extends the outfall to the outer Aucoot Cove and lines ten acres of lagoon, ranges from $25.3 million to $32.6 million.

Option 4, which includes land disposal via infiltration basins in area undeveloped lands with ten acres of lined lagoons ranges from $15.4 to $30.1 million, and with the constructive wetland added, $14 to $24.9 million. The price tag would depend on the location of the infiltration basins from the wastewater plant, and the estimated costs are based on a range of 1 to 4 miles.

"We need to do whatever we need to ... get to the next step and we need to at least explore the other alternatives," said Board of Selectmen Chairman Stephen Cushing.

The selectmen voted to allow Town Administrator Paul Dawson and the engineers to move forward in further negotiations with the EPA, but only in discussions. No commitments yet, Dawson said.

"Ultimately, it may not happen," said Dawson about the prospect of a favorable outcome for the town and one of the options. "But it could...."

In other matters, this was Selectman Jonathan Henry's final meeting in the Town House as a selectman, and Cushing and Selectman Jody Dickerson had kind words for Henry. They also brought a cake to celebrate Henry's 12 years on the board.

"It's been quite a ride," said Henry. "We respected each other's opinions along the way ... and there were a lot of people who helped show me the way."

Where else could a furnace repairman find a better opportunity than the one Marion has given him, asked Henry. "It's been a wonderful and rewarding experience, and I don't regret a minute of it."

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Marion Board of Selectmen will be on May 17 at 7:00 pm at the Marion Town House.

Chairman Arnold Johnson, the Rochester Board of Selectmen have referred five proposed zoning bylaw amendments back to the Planning Board for a public hearing before they appear as five separate articles on the June 13 Annual Town Meeting warrant.

Johnson told selectmen on May 2 that most of the bylaw changes are holdovers from a fall special town meeting that never happened, but before they could move forward onto the warrant, the process mandates that selectmen review the articles, refer them back to the Planning Board for a public hearing, and return them to selectmen to add onto the warrant for Town Meeting voters to adopt.

Three of the proposed changes pertain to the solar bylaw regulating large-scale solar voltaic installations in town.

The first, Johnson said, was in the original solar bylaw, but the sentence was omitted the last town meeting when the bylaw was amended. Johnson said, as a result of the solar project currently under site plan review for the center of Rochester off New Bedford Road, he wants language requiring a fence at least 6-feet high around solar projects within the limited commercial district.

The second would add language that would mitigate the removal of trees 12 inches or greater in diameter within the buffer zone of the proposed project, which Johnson said, again, results from the Planning Board's experience with the solar farm application off New Bedford Road. Johnson said it gives the board more control over the buffer.

A third amendment would prohibit any large-scale solar farms within the limited commercial and historic and would require any ground-mounted solar array project applications for these two districts to undergo site plan review.

None of these solar bylaw amendments, however, said Johnson, will affect current solar projects "already in the pipeline."

Another bylaw amendment seeks to consolidate all bylaws pertaining to sign regulations, simplifying the process for both applicant and the office processing it.

"We are amending Planning Board rules and regulations to eliminate redundancy," said Johnson, referring to ZBA and Planning Board regulations that currently contradict one another or do not coalesce.

A fifth bylaw change will re-zone eight agricultural residential zone lots off County Road Extension near the A.D. Makepeace development to general commercial.

The next meeting of the Rochester Board of Selectmen is scheduled for May 9 at 6:30 pm at the Rochester Town Hall.

Mattapoisett Planning Board, the residents of Brandt Point Village were back seeking help as ownership was again changing for the troubled subdivision.

Gail Carlson, Dennis Dimos, and Daniel Scully, along with several other residents of the subdivision, sought guidance and assistance on May 2 after receiving a letter from Mark Marcus of Omega Financial Corporation, Cranston, Rhode Island. The letter stated that Joseph Furtado, who came onboard the project approximately a year ago as owner/developer, was stepping down as a trustee and Marcus was stepping in.

"How does that affect the development?" asked Carlson, noting that the letter begged more questions than it answered. She wondered aloud to the board if Furtado was still involved.

Chairman Tom Tucker responded, "I thought he still owned a lot of those lots in the back," referring to Phase 2 of the subdivision.

Carlson and Dimos pointed out that there was still a punch-list of incomplete items Furtado had promised to complete on Phase 1, such as stormwater drainage, roadways, landscaping, and septic inspections.

Planning Board secretary Tammy Ferreira said that Field Engineering was still reviewing the list. Field Engineering had been retained by the town to oversee construction of Phase 1. But it remained unclear who the current residents should turn to for confirmation that work would get done or even who would complete the project.

Ferreira asked Tucker if she should send a letter to Marcus inviting him to attend an upcoming board meeting to discuss what these latest changes meant to the residents and to the town.

"We don't know who's coming and going," said Dimos. "Do they need to be licensed in this state?"

Tucker said that engineering firms needed a Massachusetts license, adding, "It's like a Ponzi scheme."

Dimos commented, with Carlson in agreement, that they uncovered that several sub-contractors on the project had never been paid, going so far as to say that the residents had ponied up to pay for snow plowing last winter.

Things ratcheted up from there with Highway Supervisor Barry Denham saying, "We still have a problem with the roads."

"I'll call town counsel tomorrow," said Tucker. "I want a cease and desist."

Then Carlson asked where this latest change in ownership left the tri-party agreement the board had recently approved. Tucker said that would be null and void with Furtado's departure.

A date was not set for the invitation to Marcus, but it will be advertised as part of future Planning Board public hearings.

Also on the agenda, the board approved two "Form A" applications. The first came from The Preserve at Bay Club for 27A Split Rock Lane and the second from Anne Beemer, 6 Tobey Lane.

The board members also heard a request from Michael Livingstone, and they ultimately approved his application for construction of a driveway off Mattapoisett Neck Road near the Town Landing after Denham made it clear that the driveway was leading off of an approved and accepted town road.

Todd Rodrigues, 81 County Road, received approval for an amendment to his site plan for the development of what he characterized as a "quaint cottage-like" commercial development in the town's village business district.

Tucker assured the abutters in attendance

ZBA Removes 55+ Only Housing Restriction

Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals

By Marilou Newell

It has taken nearly six months, but on April 28, Kerri Sousa finally heard what she had been hoping to hear: her application for modification of a special permit was granted.

When Sousa's father, Thomas Skrutski, and his business partner, George Dornblaser, set out to turn a single-family home at 7 Marion Road into four age 55+ rental units, they could not have anticipated the difficulties that would cause future heir Sousa. When Skrutski passed away, Sousa and her sisters inherited his 25 percent share of the LLC.

During her December hearing with the ZBA, she told the board, "My father's vision was that this property be for people 55 and over," adding, "Now no one is going to carry forth that vision." She said getting the financing was too difficult.

The mortgage was also due in full in October,

Sousa stated. The special permit restriction, she said, made the property higher risk and she could not secure financing for less than a 7.5 percent interest rate.

In December, ZBA Chairman Richard Cutler told Sousa, "You've inherited a self-inflicted hardship."

But the board members were willing to try to figure out a way to ease the hardship and threat to the property's future.

Over the following months, Sousa would find herself seeking legal assistance from attorney Vince Cragin, along with the town's legal counsel Blair Bailey.

The main issue for the board of appeals was the restriction placed on the property as requested by Skrutski and Dornblaser when they sought a special permit to divide the building into rental property. Ultimately, they received the special permit, but only after the ZBA mandated that the property only be rented to those over the age of 55. Sousa would claim that restriction was making it nearly impossible to keep the units fully occupied.

In subsequent hearings, the ZBA members would be stuck on the fact that Sousa did not own a majority interest in the property. As such, they weren't sure how to write a modification that would help her while still protecting the interest of the town at the historic intersection where the property is located.

During the April 28 meeting, all parties were finally able to find a clear path to a reasoned and reasonable compromise.

First and foremost, the age 55+ only restriction was removed. In place, the ZBA board members approved the following modifications to the special permit: 1) one of the units must at all times be occupied by one of the property owners (to be known as 'manager'), and 2) should the property be sold, the special permit shall not transfer to new owners.

That second stipulation would force new owners to return to the ZBA, thus giving the town what the board members believe are protections against the property becoming simply rental property. Now it would have an on-site person with deep vested interest in the management of the property.

Board member Kirby Gilmore said, "I think that satisfies us today, gives her relief today, and the town some assurances."

The Rochester Board of Appeals does not have any scheduled hearings for the month of May.

repeat a grade, and homeless children have twice the rate of learning disabilities. These alarming statistics have led Old Rochester Regional High School's Community Service Learning (CSL) club to start a School Supplies Drive to support a local organization that is fighting homelessness by providing extra educational services to homeless students in the area.

This organization is called Schools on Wheels Massachusetts (SOWMA), and it helps students struggling with homelessness by providing them with volunteer tutors and school supplies. Since its creation in 2004, SOWMA has supported more than 1,800 students across their 12 program sites in Southeastern Massachusetts.

The drive wish list includes items such as backpacks, notebooks, rulers, pencil pouches, index cards, crayons, filler paper, 1-inch binders, and the list goes on and on. All items must be new.

Supplies collected by Old Rochester will go to students in need primarily in New Bedford, Fall River, and Brockton.

Senior Alexandria Powers worked together with CSL supervisor Heidi Graser to start the drive. Powers is a part of the SOWMA program, and she brought the drive to the school in order to allow ORR students the opportunity to help those in need.

"I contacted one of the reps, and he gave me tips on how to start the drive," said Powers. "And when I brought it back to Ms. Graser, she really wanted to help. So we got together a lot during school and put the drive together!"

Powers is involved in the SOWMA program by tutoring local homeless children to ensure they stay on track in school.

"I tutor children in New Bedford and became inspired by how happy and enthusiastic the kids are to learn considering their situations," said Powers. "Ms. [Kelly] Ochoa got me involved in the program along with a few other seniors in our AP Spanish class."

The drive began on April 25 and will continue indefinitely until the CSL has collected enough supplies to donate at one time. In order to advertise, donation boxes have been set up in nearly every homeroom at

Senior Projects

Tabor Academy News

By Madeleine Gregory

One of the highlights of Tabor Academy's spring season is always the senior project presentations.

This year, a group of seniors spent much of the second semester working to develop new skills, create something, or test out new activities. Soon, their final products will be unveiled, but there is a lot that happens behind the scenes that is rarely seen.

Seniors start the process early, pitching their ideas in December. Once they get approved, they can begin working hard to make sure they meet their deadline to accomplish their goal. The most arduous part of senior projects, many agree, is the journal required, which consists of daily updates on the project's progress.

The projects vary widely: from a ceramics project highlighting different cultures' signature pieces to a food blog of reviews of restaurants and food trucks. Seniors who participate in senior projects usually drop a couple of classes to focus on their endeavor, whether it is an internship, a blog, or photo project.

One student who arguably knows more about this year's senior projects than anyone else is Lily Blouin, whose senior project is a documentary about senior projects.

"I initially thought about doing a photo documentary project in the style of Humans of New York about senior projects," she says, as she has had a lot of experience with photography at Tabor. "I decided I wanted to step out of my comfort zone, though, and try a new medium. So, I decided to do a movie rather than just taking pictures."

Blouin has worked to interview every senior doing a project for her documentary, as well as shoot footage of them working. For her, the hardest part has been "not taking as many classes." While she used to spend most of her day in the Academic Center, she now spends a lot of time shooting or editing footage.

"It's interesting and definitely a new challenge, but I do miss the rhythm of the school day," Blouin said.

More than anything, Blouin is looking to see her project come together, as it is now still in the rather unglamorous intermediate stage. Hannah Dawicki agrees. Dawicki is also doing a photo-based project – one based on diversity.

"I love both photography and Photoshop, and I wanted to use both skills to make a really interesting project," Dawicki. "I decided that I would change a person's features with Photoshop to make them look as if they are of a different race, which is actually a lot more difficult than I thought it would be."

She has spent countless hours playing with Photoshop trying to perfect her work.

"I'm excited to see how people react to the final products," she said. "My intention is to show how people should not perceive people differently solely based on how they look."

These are just a few of the creative projects that seniors will soon present. Every year, teachers, underclassmen, and seniors get the chance to go to longer evening presentations and shorter day presentations of projects that interest them.

Senior projects serve as a unique opportunity to showcase talents that may not be as obvious or prominent to the rest of the community, as well as a chance for students to try something new. As in the past, this senior project day is met with great anticipation as presenters prepare to show the school everything they've been working towards for months.

Baseball: The boys started off the week at home against GNB Voc-Tech in the team's first meeting of the year. Junior Sam Henrie pitched a fantastic game, striking out 12 and allowing just two hits and three walks in a 1-0 victory for the Bulldogs. Sophomore Jake Asiaf doubled in fellow sophomore Mike Kennefick on a walk-off hit in the seventh to provide Henrie all the run support he needed. Will Hopkins (Jr.), Kyle Brezinski (Jr.), and Bryant Salkind (Sr.) also had hits in the low-scoring ballgame. On Wednesday, the boys traveled to Apponequet to take on the Lakers. Salkind pitched well again, but was out-dueled and wound up taking the loss in a 4-3 game. Senior Hunter Parker had a key hit for the Bulldogs: a two-run single. On Friday, the Bulldogs were away against Case. The team's bats came alive for a 16-3 win. Hopkins pitched a complete game and added a double and a single on offense. Brezinski had a huge day at the dish, going 5-5 with two doubles and five RBI. Meanwhile, junior John Breault cracked four hits, and Henrie, Parker, and Salkind all had two hits: a double and a single for each. This week, the Bulldogs are away at Bourne on Monday, home against Fairhaven on Wednesday, at Seekonk on Friday, and back home for another game against Bourne on Saturday, in what is shaping up to be a very busy week.

Softball: The girls were home against GNB Voc-Tech to start their week. Junior Olivia Labbe continued her hot streak with a 3-for-4 day at the plate, but it wasn't enough to overcome the Lady Bears' high-powered offense, and the girls took a 13-11 loss. On Wednesday, the team played Apponequet. Labbe and freshman Alex Sheehan were both 3-4 in a morale-boosting 14-2 win. Junior Hannah Guard also had a good day, stroking two hits and driving in a pair. The Lady Bulldogs came back home to play Case on Friday. Errors proved costly, as seven of the runs scored by Case were the result of fielding miscues, leading to an 8-4 defeat. This week, the team begins at home with Bourne on Monday and heads to Fairhaven to play at Hastings Middle School on Wednesday before returning home to play the Seekonk Lady Warriors on Friday.

Boys' Lacrosse: The Bulldogs began the week away at non-conference Dartmouth High on Monday, losing 7-3. Junior Landon Gougen had another big day, scoring all three of the Bulldogs' goals in the loss. On Wednesday, the guys stayed on the road to play the Voc-Tech Bears. Gougen was back at it with four goals and three assists in an 18-3 drubbing of Voc. Sophomore Alex Lorenz scored three goals, while freshman Owen Powers and juniors Pat Saltmarsh and Charlie Tirrell had two apiece. The boys ended their week with an away game against Apponequet on Friday, resulting in another huge win, 17-6. Gougen upped himself again, scoring five this time, while sophomore Pat Kiernan added two goals. They have two games this week: home against Bourne on Wednesday and away at Fairhaven on Friday.

Animal Advice

Jay Gould, DVM

My parrot only like the sunflower seeds in her seed mix. How can I get her to eat the other seeds.

I would compare an all seed diet to an all white bread diet. That would be okay in the short run, but severely deficient over time. Seeds lack vitamin A and a number of essential oils that are necessary to keep your bird healthy.

What should I feed my parrot?

Feed pelleted bird food. It looks like dry dog or cat food but much smaller, and its formulated for birds. To this add fresh fruits and vegetables. Offer the seeds for 10 minutes in the morning and 10 minutes in the evening and leave the pellets, fruits and veggies available for the rest of the day.

Girls' Lacrosse: The Lady Bulldogs began their home stand against non-conference Dartmouth High on Monday. Sophomore Madison Cooney had a huge game with four goals, but it wasn't enough to stop the Lady Indians, who won 12-8. Sophomore Maggie Adams also scored two goals while junior Emily Hiller and senior Sarah Ryan added one apiece. On Friday, the girls finished their week with a game against conference rival Apponequet. Despite three goals from sophomore Alexandra Hulsebosch, the Lady Bulldogs dropped the important game 7-6. Cooney also scored two, while freshman Gates Tenerowicz played admirably in the net. This week, the girls will start out against GNB Voc-Tech on the road on Monday, before playing Bourne on Wednesday, and returning home to play the Fairhaven Lady Blue Devils on Friday afternoon.

Boys' Track: The Bulldogs had their first conference meet on Monday against Case. The boys won 91-45 behind strong days from double winners Danny Renwick (Jr.) and Harry Smith (So.). Smith won the 100m (11.8) and javelin (142-9), while Renwick took first in the high jump (5-10) and 100m hurdles (15.8). Other winners included senior James Estudante (shot put), senior Will Santos (400m), junior Eli Spevack (400m hurdles) senior Jared Wheeler (mile), senior Patrick Briand (2 mile), and sophomore Evan Tilley (800m). The 4x100m team of Smith, sophomore Elijah McAllister, senior Jarrett Johnston, and junior Jacob Cafarella won with a strong time of 47.5. On Thursday, they traveled to Dighton-Rehoboth to face Wareham as well as the Falcons. The boys defeated the Vikings, but fell to a strong D-R unit. Among the winners in both meets were Wheeler in the mile, Estudante in the shot put, and Renwick in the high jump, 100m hurdles and 400m hurdles. Many of the team's athletes participated in Saturday's State Relays Meet in Bellingham. Finishing fifth overall, the boys had a terrific day, with the shuttle hurdles team's win and the shot put relay's second place finish standing out amongst the results. This week, the team has a meet at Fairhaven on Monday, a tri-meet featuring Bourne and Apponequet on Thursday, and a pair of invitationals on Saturday.

conference season against Case on Monday. Senior Zoe Smith won three events, paving the way to a 124-11 victory for the track girls. Smith won the 100m (13.2), 100m hurdles (16.7), and high jump (5-0). Junior Brooke Santos was also a double winner, taking the triple jump (31-1) and the 400m hurdles (72.2). Other winners included sophomore Maxine Kellum (long jump), junior Kelsey Holick (shot put), senior Nicole Mattson (400m), junior Avery Nugent (mile), and senior Emily Josephson (2 mile). The girls faced D-R and Wareham at D-R on Thursday, winning both contests handily. Smith won the 100m hurdles again, and Josephson (2 mile), Mattson (400m), and sophomore Madisen Martin (800m) were other winners. The team's top runners went to Bellingham to run in the State Relays on Saturday. They won the high jump relay and finished fifth overall, with respectable performances across all categories. The girls will be up against Fairhaven on Monday, before running against Bourne and Apponequet in a tri-meet on Thursday, and coming back for a pair of invitationals on Saturday.

Boys' Tennis: The boys' first match of the week was scheduled to be at Dighton-Rehoboth on Tuesday, but it wound up being pushed back to Saturday due to rain. On Wednesday, the boys started their week with a game at home against non-conference Barnstable High, and were defeated 5-0 by the tough D-1 competitor. On Thursday, the Bulldogs set down the Apponequet Lakers 5-0 to get back on track. Sophomore Sam Pasquill

This week, the boys will play Case at Veteran's Memorial Park on Monday, and Bourne on the road on Wednesday, before returning home to face Fairhaven on Friday.

Girls' Tennis: The Lady Bulldogs began their week on the road at Bourne on Monday. Singles players Morgan Middleton (Sr.), Katelyn Bindas (Jr.), and Sophie Church (Jr.) all won their matches, leading the girls to a 5-0 sweep. The doubles pairings of junior Emma Collings with freshman Delaney Pothier and freshman Delaney Soucy with sophomore Grace Filloramo were both victorious. They continued at home against D-R on Wednesday in a game that was pushed back a day due to rain. The Lady Bulldogs eked out a 3-2 win behind singles win from Middleton and fellow senior Olivia Bellefeuille. The doubles team of Bindas and junior Alexis Parker provided the additional win to give the girls the edge over the Lady Falcons. The girls' next game was at rival Apponequet on Thursday, which wound up as a tough 4-1 loss. The second doubles pairing of Bindas and Parker won 6-0, 6-2 for the team's lone match win. This week, the girls will play Case on Monday and Bourne on Wednesday (both matches at home) before

Rob Haley, President of The Mattapoisett Lions Club, one of 45,000 Lions Clubs around the world, has announced the two recipients of 2016 Mattapoisett Lions Club Award of Excellence in the amount of $2,500 each.

This year's recipients are Jane Kassabian, a senior at Old Rochester Regional High School who will be attending the University of Notre Dame in the fall, and Adam Estes, a senior at Bishop Stang High School who will be attending Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

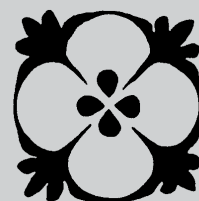

Both are recognized for their outstanding work in community service, their career goals and academic records.

Over the past six years, the members of the Lions Club have awarded $25,000 in scholarships.

These awards would not be possible without the strong community and town departments' support we've

To the Editor:

I just finished reading the story about the "super sweet cat" that just gave birth to the super-sized litter of 12 kittens (minus the two who did not live). First of all, this should never have been allowed to happen. What has become of pet ownership responsibility to these wonderful "family" members? Now, in addition to the other cats for adoption at this shelter, there are going to be an additional 11 homeless cats. Shame on the person who was previously responsible for this cat. I realize that veterinary costs are very high these days, and the cost of neutering a cat or dog is sometimes out of reach for a lot of people. But, if they looked around and did some research, they may be able to find low-cost fees for this procedure. I hope and pray that what remains of the litter make it and have a chance of adoption and that the mother is neutered before she is up for adoption. They deserve a chance. So to those folks out there who are considering purchasing a new pet, please consider adoption before spending big bucks at pet shops or breeders. Or, if you have to, please neuter your new family member and try to keep the number of animals in shelters to a minimum.

Stephanie Mitchell, Mattapoisett

Obituaries:

Janet L. (Miller) Thackeray, 94, of Marion died April 27, 2016 peacefully at home after a long struggle with Alzheimer's Dementia.

She was the beloved wife and best friend of the late Robert R. Thackeray, with whom she shared 62 years of marriage.

Born and raised in New Bedford, the daughter of the late Earl C. and Lillian (Healey) Miller, she lived in Marion since 1951.

Mrs. Thackeray was a woman of strong Christian faith. She was an active member of The First Congregational Church of Marion. She sang in the church choir for over 50 years, was a Sunday School teacher and served on many committees. She was a founding member of the Friendship Table at The First Congregational Church.

Mrs. Thackeray worked at home as a secretary for her late husband who was a sales representative for the Acushnet Company. She was a founding board member of the Marion Council On Aging, original member of the Sippican Choral Society, volunteer and board member of the Marion Visiting Nurse Association and volunteer at the soup kitchen in New Bedford.

Her lifelong love was music. She maintained her beautiful alto voice until her death.

Mrs. Thackeray loved nature, especially watching birds and backyard animals, and observing the everchanging sky.

Survivors include her son, Douglas Thackeray and his wife Monique of Marion; a daughter, Dale Thackeray and her beloved friend Lee Dougall of Marion; her former son-in-law, Lee Gunschel; her former daughter-in-law, Debby Briggs; 4 grandchildren, Casey Gunschel and her partner Ray Holtz, Joshua Gunschel and his wife Michelle, Jody Spark and her husband Seth and Kary Krochko and her husband Mark; 8 great-grandchildren; and several nieces and a nephew.

She was the sister of the late Jean C. Norman.

Her Funeral Service was held on Tuesday, May 3rd in The First Congregational Church of Marion. Burial followed in Evergreen Cemetery. Visiting hours were omitted. In lieu of flowers, remembrances may be made to The First Congregational Church Memorial Fund, PO Box 326, Marion, MA 02738 or the the Marion Firefighters Association, P.O. Box 114, Marion, MA 02738. Alexandra "Xani" Coleman, July 5, 1988 – April 22, 2016

"Energy cannot be created or destroyed, it can only be changed from one form to another." –Xani

"I hope my best friends meet boys who love them as much as I love them, because sometimes I think they forget how well they deserve to be treated." –Xani

I didn't go anywhere, I'm still around all of you.

I'll be present at my homes in Greenland, NH and Rochester, MA on a regular basis, and at my favorite work locations at the Beach Plum and Bruno's Pizza.

Don't forget to dance.

My Style: "Think a ghetto-ish Richard Simmons. I'm a white gurl from NH that grew up watching MTV; I don't know what I'm doing. My background in Ace of Base routines and a healthy Spice Girls obsession (along with Girl Power) keeps me from disgracing myself completely."

Even though I'll be in your lives daily, I'll miss the physical contact with everyone, especially my fam. Parents, Sheri & Jack McCaughey, and Jaime & Kathie Coleman; Sibs, John Coleman, Will Coleman, Melissa McCaughey and Amanda McCaughey; Grandparents, Nelda Englehart, Beverly Coleman, Joe & Mary McCaughey, and Stephen Chmiel; and too many Aunts, Uncles and Cousins in the Coleman, Englehart, Chmiel and McCaughey families to list here.

I left you all so early. I'm predeceased by Granddads Jack Englehart and Jim Coleman; Grandmom Emily Chmiel; and my beloved cat, Pepsi.

There was a celebration of my life at The Portsmouth Country Club, 80 Country Club Lane, Greenland, NH on Saturday April 30th.

My family requests that flowers please be omitted and suggests donations for a bench to be placed in a remembrance garden in my name to be located on Ocean Road in Greenland. Donations may be made to Sheri McCaughey, 2 Fairway Drive, Greenland, NH 04840 or to the charity, Kitty Angels, P.O. Box 638, Tyngsboro, MA 01879 online at www.kittyangels.org or call 978-649-4681. Please visit www.Remickgendron.com to view my memorial website, sign my tribute wall or for directions.

Elizabeth A. "Bette" Roberts, 88, of Mattapoisett died May 2, 2016 peacefully at home after a brief illness.

Born in Utica, NY, the daughter of the late Lloyd V. and Jane (Thomas) Roberts, and was a graduate of the University of New York at Potsdam. She lived in Mattapoisett for the last 40 years.

She was an active member of the Mattapoisett Congregational Church where she was the choir director for over 25 years.

Bette was the curator of the Mattapoisett Historical Society for over 20 years.

She was a trustee of the Mattapoisett Library and served as a docent at the New Bedford Whaling Museum. She was a member of the Sippican Choral Society and the Mattapoisett Land Trust.

Bette was also formerly employed by the Girl Scouts of America in New York for over 35 years.

Survivors include her friend of 42 years, Jo Pannell of Mattapoisett; a niece, Pam Burlingame and her husband Ron of Fulton, NY; 4 nephews, Lloyd Roberts of Gaston, SC, Kenneth Roberts of Paris Green, NY, Terry Roberts and his wife Teresa of Englewood, CO and Jan Roberts and his wife Patty of Columbia, TN.

She was the sister of the late Kenneth Roberts and John Roberts.

Her Memorial Service will be held on Friday at 11 AM in the Mattapoisett Congregational Church. Visiting hours will be on Thursday from 4-8 PM in the Saunders-Dwyer Mattapoisett Home For Funerals, 50 County Rd. (Rt. 6) Mattapoisett. In lieu of flowers, remembrances may be made to the Mattapoisett Congregational Church, P.O. Box 284. For directions and guestbook, please visit www.saundersdwyer.com.

League of Women Voters for getting such an impressive turnout. Voting for Town Boards is essential and every resident's duty.

And ... so is contributing to the Master Plan for 2026! Every candidate, Marion Selectmen, Town of Marion board member, and concerned citizen should plan to attend this last workshop. Only a few hours of your time now will influence a document that will guide decision making for years to come!

At the Saturday, May 14 workshop, Marion tax payers will have the opportunity to discuss the last two elements of Marion's Master Plan: Open Space & Recreation and Natural & Cultural Resources.

You will also see the results from the following Master Plan Elements that were covered in earlier workshops: Land Use; Economic Development; Housing; Transportation; Services & Facilities ; and Climate Resiliency.

The Planning Board is counting on you to provide your point of view to help guide Marion into the future! Your input is essential to construct a plan that truly represents what the people who live here want. (If you can't attend, please don't hesitate to email your comments to tsantos@marionma.gov.)

Marion's Master Plan is a document that will become the roadmap for Marion's evolution through the coming decade and beyond. Assisting us with the planning process are professionals from the Southeast

Regional Planning and Economic Development District (SRPEDD) as well as many of our selected Master Plan Advisors (a group of involved community members and representatives from town boards).

Please mark your calendar TODAY for this important public forum: 9:00 am in the Music Hall on Saturday, May 14. Help us protect Marion's special charm while meeting the future needs of our residents. For more information, visit www.srpedd.org/marion-master-plan.

We look forward to seeing you on May 14.

Wendy Cullum, Master Plan Outreach Advisor

To the Editor:

Over the last 25 years, whether through the organized town cleanup or Arbor Day/ Earth Day activities, the residents of Marion have come together on a particular day in the spring to clean up and keep beautiful our town. For the last couple of years, it has been paired on the same day as Springfest at Washburn Park run by The Sippican Lands Trust. Because Lands Trust is taking a year off from hosting Springfest, we, as current organizers of the town-wide clean-up, thought it best to take a break as well and re-assess how best to move forward in the years to come. Participation has dwindled a bit in the past few years with people generally commenting that they found little to pick up. That certainly speaks to our town's ongoing efforts and commitment to keeping Marion clean!

WANTED

in Marion:

A PROVEN LEADER

Marion is very fortunate to have two fine men running for the vacant seat on our Board of Selectmen. They both care deeply about our town and both are nice guys; desirable attributes in a Selectman.

Only one of them is a proven leader.

NORM HILLS has served on a multitude of Marion's boards and committees over the years, and in each case he has stepped up to lead as the chair (Conservation Commission, Capital Improvement Planning Committee), vice-chair (Planning Board), co-chair (Master Plan Committee), and/or clerk (Planning Board, Energy Management Committee, Community Preservation Committee). Beyond formal board and committee work, Norm works tirelessly and quietly for our town. Did you know that he single-handedly sorted and rescued dozens of mildewing boxes of municipal documents from the damp basement of the Town House before they deteriorated? Did you know that he meticulously reviewed our Town bylaws and found numerous errors? Did you know that he attends training sessions in Worcester twice/year to keep himself up-to-date on municipal governance and planning? Norm doesn't just say he cares about Marion, he demonstrates it every day.

Our town is facing daunting challenges in coming years, but with a dedicated and proven leader like NORM HILLS serving as our Selectman, we will rise to those challenges. Please vote for Norm on

Election Day: Friday, May 13th at the VFW Hall

Sidekicked

By Rob Gonsalves

Big Trouble in Little China* (1986). Starring Kurt Russell and Kim Cattrall. Directed by John Carpenter. Running time: 99 minutes. MPAA rating: PG-13.

If you want to enjoy Big Trouble in Little China the correct way, listen to its director, John Carpenter, and star, Kurt Russell, who will cheerfully tell you that the man you might assume is the hero — intrepid trucker Jack Burton (Russell) — is actually the film's idiot sidekick. The real hero is Jack's friend Wang Chi (Dennis Dun), who has the movie's true heroic arc. Wang's fiancée Miao Yin (Suzee Pai) has been kidnapped, and he must rescue her. Jack kind of tags along because Wang owes him money and, later, because his truck is stolen and he wants it back. So while Wang goes forward and drives the plot, Jack muscles in and talks like John Wayne and occasionally manages not to screw things up completely.

Big Trouble in Little China started out as a period Western with martial-arts flavor — something like the later Shanghai Noon, possibly — but was modernized by script doctor W.D. Richter (Buckaroo Banzai), and ended up as both an homage to and example of mystical chop-socky. Audiences in 1986 were simply not ready for it, and it tanked badly in theaters before gaining, like some of Carpenter's other "failures," an eager cult on home video. Today it's generally viewed as a precursor to the cinema of actor-director Stephen Chow, fight choreographer Yuen Woo-ping, and everything else made possible in the wake of The Matrix and Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon.

The plot is basically an explosion in a clown factory. It needs near-constant exposition, as much to keep us up to speed as to get Jack's head on straight — he almost never knows what's going on. He's the Dumb White Man at sea in Chinatown, where the local customs are bizarre and incomprehensible to him. The narrative is almost a parody of "Asian inscrutability." The gist of it is that Miao Yin, along with another, possibly mixed-race woman named Gracie Law (Kim Cattrall), have been captured so that they can be married off to the 2000-year-old sorcerer Lo Pan (James Hong), because the women both have green eyes and this is vital to lift the curse that keeps Lo Pan decrepit and/or an incorporeal spirit. You can kind of see why Jack says "Huh?" a lot.

Various superpowered minions of Lo Pan's show up and do their elemental specialties. Monsters lurch into the frame, mostly unexplained. Yet Big Trouble in Little China is a comedy — a giggly, jostling adventure that sneers in the face of logic. I'm not sure why a reporter (Kate Burton) is around at all, other than to give Gracie someone to talk to and pass the Bechdel Test. Pretty much everyone in the movie is there to aid or frustrate Wang Chi's goal; Jack frequently does one or the other, sometimes both at once. Carpenter and his favored cinematographer Dean Cundey (doing his fifth and final work for Carpenter) keep the action colorful and bright, even when rain pours down; a more poetic title for the movie might be Blue Lightning, Red Gowns, after the magic weapon of one villain and the dresses Gracie and Miao Yin wear during Lo Pan's ceremony. This PG-13 film, despite its frequent shooting and bashing and swordplay, is also completely bloodless except for the blood-draw in the aforementioned ceremony.

The movie contains as well the single drop-dead funniest moment in all of Carpenter's filmography, one that Kurt Russell can't even get through talking about without guffawing. I won't give it away. But watch not only for an ill-advised show of boisterous force but for a shot a few seconds later of "our hero" missing all the fun. Big Trouble in Little China was significantly before its time in more ways than one: it was a goofily meta satire in an era of mostly fearfully sincere action (think of Stallone and Schwarzenegger and Eastwood), razzing tropes that American audiences hadn't yet been taught to question. Kurt Russell is front and center on the burnished Drew Struzan poster; I don't think Dennis Dun is anywhere on there at all. But you know what they say about judging a book by its cover. Snickering all the way, Carpenter and Russell suckered audiences into sitting down for a White Savior action picture but gave them a moron who only wins in the end because of "reflexes."

Not wanting to completely abandon clean-up efforts, we thought we'd use May 13, during the town-wide elections at the VFW, as an opportunity to hand out bags and gloves to those leaving the polls in hopes that they could return to their own neighborhoods with those efforts in mind. We will also supply a list of historically problem areas in our town if you wish to venture elsewhere!

Thanks for your continued support over the years, and we welcome any/all comments and suggestions for the future.

Hope to see you at the polls on May 13!

Academic Achievements

The Association of Private Enterprise Education recognized Marion's Margaret Tracy ('16) with second place in the Undergraduate Research Competition. Prizes for the contest were awarded on April 5, 2016 at The Association's International Conference held in Las Vegas, Nevada, featuring keynote speaker Dr. John B. Taylor of the Hoover Institution at Stanford University.

The Undergraduate Research Competition, co-sponsored by the Liberty Fund, Inc., solicited undergraduate research from The Association's general themes of political economy, private enterprise education, and free markets, but welcomed research from any topic.

Elizabeth Taber Library's Open House

Join us at the Elizabeth Taber Library on Thursday, May 19 between 4:00 and 6:00 pm to celebrate our wonderful library and staff. We'll have light refreshments, flyers about our free services, and friendly staff to answer any questions you might have! While here, we encourage you to take a walk around our charming library to see all the exciting changes we've recently made. There will be drop-in activities for kids and adults. Someone will also be here from the Boston Public Library to highlight additional free online resources. For more information, please stop in or call the Elizabeth Taber Library at 508-748-1252.

2016 Rochester Country Fair Award

Thanks to the generosity and support of those who attended last year's Ponderosa Open Golf Tournament to benefit the Rochester Country Fair Awards, we are happy to announce that we will be able to award $500 for educational expenses to a graduating senior from both Old Rochester Regional High School and Old Colony Regional Vocational High School.

The deserving students must reside in Rochester and have shown and proven positive leadership, strong work ethics, academic goals and community service.

Applications are now available in each of the school's guidance offices.

Above: The talented students at Rochester Memorial School presented their annual tribute to the Bard on Friday, April 29 as they performed Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." RMS teacher Danni Kleiman has been adapting the scripts and directing the RMS Shakespeare plays for 27 years now. Kleiman explained the selection process for the annual Shakespearian play, saying, "I look at the talent that I have from the previous year," says Kleiman. "I also look at the talent in the 5th grade and pick the play accordingly." Kleiman has one last play scheduled for 2017, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," before she retires. Photos by Colin Veitch

Marion Garden Group Plant Sale

The Marion Garden Group Plant Sale will be held on Saturday, May 14 from 9:00 am to 12:00 noon, with a rain date of Sunday, May 15 (same time) at Bicentennial Park on the corner of Main Street and Spring Street

Members of the Marion Garden Group have been digging, dividing, and donating. As a result, hundreds of plants from gardens all over Marion will be offered for sale next weekend at the first annual Diggings and Donations Plant Sale. You'll want to arrive early for the best selection of hostas, black-eyed Susans, herbs, groundcovers (including pink lilies of the valley and pachysandra), dogwood, daylilies, clematis, lilac, iris, salvia, sedum, succulents, and much more. Some of the specimens have been nurtured in Marion gardens for decades. Special features at the sale are 100-year-old orange daylilies. In addition to mature varieties of perennials, there will also be seedlings, cut flowers, handmade bird and garden crafts, and houseplants for sale.

Brought to you by the Marion Garden Group, all proceeds will benefit village beautification projects. The Garden Group also sponsors the Holiday Greens Boutique held every December at the Music Hall in conjunction with the Marion Holiday House Tour.

Members have been digging and dividing their gardens and nurturing plants in a greenhouse in order to bring you this special one-day event.

The Garden Group is made up of 60 active and 30 affiliate members with an interest in gardening and the betterment of Marion. Members plant window boxes in the village four times each year with ongoing maintenance that includes watering and deadheading. They volunteer at two area nursing homes conducting monthly flower arranging classes, and they make

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Temper your typical Aries urge to charge into a situation and demand answers. Instead, let the Lamb's gentler self emerge to deal with a problem that requires delicacy.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You are aware of what's going on, so continue to stand by your earlier decision, no matter how persuasive the counter-arguments might be. Money pressures will soon ease.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) By all means, have fun and enjoy your newly expanded social life. But don't forget that some people are depending on you to keep promises that are very important to them.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You need to wait patiently for an answer to a workplace problem and not push for a decision. Remember: Time is on your side. A financial matter needs closer attention.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You now have information that can influence that decision you planned to make. But the clever Cat will consult a trusted friend or family member before making a major move.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Good news: You're finding that more doors are opening for you to show what you can do, and you don't even have to knock very hard to get the attention you're seeking.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your gift for creating order out of chaos will help you deal with a sudden rush of responsibilities that would threaten someone less able to balance his or her priorities.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Congratulations. Your energy levels are coming right back up to normal -- just in time to help you tackle some worthwhile challenges and make some important choices.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The sage Sagittarian should demand a full explanation of inconsistencies that might be cropping up in what had seemed to be a straightforward deal.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A conflict between obligations to family and to the job can create stressful problems. Best advice: Balance your dual priorities so that one doesn't outweigh the other.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Don't guess, speculate or gossip about that so-called mystery situation at the workplace. Bide your time. An explanation will be forthcoming very soon.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Boredom might be creeping in and causing you to lose interest in a repeat project. Deal with it by flipping over your usual routine and finding a new way to do an old task.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can warm the coldest heart with your lyrical voice and bright smile. You find yourself at home, wherever you are.

at 8:00 pm. It may be prudent for contestants that raced last year to submit their paper work on the first night of registration in the event of unforeseen circumstances that prevent them from attending the last registration and losing the starting position they earned based on last year's finish position. This would also make the workload on the registration staff a bit easier on the last night of registration.

Rules and registration forms may be obtained at Lloyd's Market and at the registration sessions. A signed registration form must be submitted by each contestant for a team to be eligible to draw a starting position.

The Boat Race Ham & Bean Supper will be served on the Saturday evening of the Memorial Day weekend, May 28 from 5:00 to 7:00 pm at Rochester Memorial School. Tickets for the supper may be purchased at the door. Proceeds from the supper, along with donations, fund the expenses of the race. (There is no registration/entry fee to race.)

Trophies and prizes will be awarded on Memorial Day at Rochester Memorial School at 7:30 pm.

For further information, contact Boat Race Chairman Arthur F. Benner at 508-763-2024.

Half-Price Sale

Mattapoisett Friends Meeting (Quaker) is extending its Spring Sale from 9:00 to 11:00 am on Saturday, May 7 at its Hall, 103 Marion Road (Rte. 6), Mattapoisett.

Ms. Zucco has been inspired by her work as a personal care attendant for girls with varying levels of disability through the Cerebral Palsy of Massachusetts organization. "So many of them are breaking barriers and overcoming incredible challenges every single day. My goal is to raise public awareness by giving these young women and girls a platform to show the community how inspirational they truly are."

The program will have four phases: Introduction, Talent, Formal Wear, and Personal Statement. The personal statement will be submitted in writing before the event detailing obstacles they have overcome, barriers broken and/or goals and aspirations, pieces of which will be read to the audience during the Evening Wear portion of the live show.

Admission for the public to attend the Miss Inspirational program is a $10 donation to the Children's Miracle Network Hospitals (Boston Children's Hospital) to be collected at the door.

4:00 pm with a program of fresh, new music – joyous, sparkling, and evocative of the Renaissance and Baroque.

Performing on the church's historic George S. Hutchings organ will be Carson Cooman, composer-in-residence at The Memorial Church of Harvard University, whose captivating "Sonatina, Opus 1016" was featured on the November 2015 recital program of Steven Young. Cooman has attracted wide acceptance and enthusiasm for his own engaging compositions and his lively playing of recent organ works, many written especially for him to perform.

As a composer, Cooman has created a catalog of works in many forms, ranging from solo instrumental pieces to operas and from orchestral works to hymn tunes (www.carsoncooman.com). As an organ recitalist, Cooman specializes in the performance of new music. Over 150 compositions by more than 100 international composers have been written for him.

Cooman holds degrees in music from Harvard University and Carnegie Mellon University. He has given premiere performances of works by a number of today's most distinguished composers and has made many recordings, including recordings of music by Lothar Graap and Carlotta Ferrari, both of whom will be featured on the May 22 program. His own work has been performed on all six inhabited continents and appears on over 40 recordings.

The First Congregational Church in Marion was built in 1841 with the contributions of local ship captains. In 1884, with support from local philanthropist Elizabeth Taber, a new mechanical-action organ by George S. Hutchings was installed. Hutchings was prominent among American organ builders and built organs for the old Boston Music Hall, the Old South Church, and Symphony Hall.

Tickets for the recitals are $10 and may be purchased at The Bookstall on Front Street in Marion and at the door. For more information and reservations, call 508-748-2067. The First Congregational Church, located at 28 Main Street at the corner of Front and Main in Marion, is handicapped accessible.

Symphony Seaside Swing Goes to Paris

On Saturday, June 4, the New Bedford Symphony Orchestra will host its annual Seaside Swing fundraiser to benefit the NBSO's educational programs and concert series. This year's gala event is highlighted by a Parisian theme and will take place from 5:30 to 10:00 pm at the Kittansett Club in Marion.

The evening begins with cocktails – including the signature “Seaside Swizzle” cocktail – raw bar and hors d'oeuvres. Then dinner featuring an artful blend of French-inspired flavors will be served, followed by a colorful Can-Can show reminiscent of Parisian nightlife. At 8:00 pm, the NBSO “Orchestre de-Swing” will open up the dance floor. A magnificent silent auction will be on display the entire evening. To preview and bid on items, visit www.nbsymphony.org and click on Events.

Seating is limited; tickets are available through May 20 on the NBSO website, www.nbsymphony.org, or by calling 508-999-6276. A number of support levels are available, as well as individual tickets.

The New Bedford Symphony celebrates its 100th anniversary this 2015-16 season! In 1915, New Bedford schoolteacher Clarence Arey founded a symphony orchestra to bring classical music to our region. Today, the NBSO is a superb professional orchestra that performs with internationally renowned guest artists, annually presenting a classical and pops concert series and a chamber music series, as well as providing nationally recognized educational programs for the children of South Coast. You deserve a symphony in your life – the New Bedford Symphony! Visit us at www.nbsymphony.org.

festival with films created by the students. Conference speakers included a panel discussion with investigative reporters Mike Beaudet from WCVB, Joe Bergantino, founder of NE Center for Investigative Reporting, and Boston Globe Photojournalist John Tlumacki. Other workshops included: documentary film making with producer/director Roger Lyons; meteorology with Fox 25's Sarah Wroblewski; film/TV location director Tiffany Kinder; Comcast Sports Net; College Interns and Student Opportunities with Michelle Ryder, Matthew Leighton, Emmy Award Winning TJ Hourigan Host of NESN Clubhouse; camera lens choices and backpack gear.

Students gathered outside for a "Good Morning Eye Opener" message shot via drone which will air on WCVB's morning newscast.

The conference is sponsored by the New England Chapter of the National Academy of TV Arts and Sciences.

ORRJHS Cub Reporter Daphne Poirier commented, "It was a fun conference. I especially liked the panel discussion with the investigative reporters."

"It was fun to get a behind the scenes look at the TV and film industry," said Bulldog TV member Zoe Bilodeau.

This was the first year the elementary students were invited to the media conference.

"The whole day was fun," commented Sippican Cub Reporter Sarah Wyman.

"I liked the red carpet; I felt like a celebrity!" exclaimed Sippican Cub Reporter Mariah Ruell.

"It was very educational. I like learning how TV weather is done," said Sippican Cub Reporter Rosie Lally.

Summer Training in Reading Disorders

From August 15-20, The Sally Borden Program at Friends Academy, 1088 Tucker Road, North Dartmouth, will offer training in the Orton-Gillingham Reading Approach, a program that teaches children and/or adults with dyslexia or reading disorders how to read. This 60-hour course prepares its participants for the Associate Level at the Orton-Gillingham Academy (ortonacademy.org). Dawn Nieman, a Fellow at the Academy, who has been approved and licensed by the Academy of Orton-Gillingham Practitioners and Educators to teach the Associates Level, will teach the course. She will provide this rigorous course during eight sessions this fall: August 15-20; and on October 15 and 16.

During this training, in addition to learning about dyslexia and reading disorders, participants will learn the following fundamental elements of the Orton-Gillingham approach: an introduction to phonology; handwriting instruction; basic phonics; morphology and words derived from Anglo-Saxon, Latin, and Greek; strategies for multi-sensory instruction; formal and informal testing and how to use that information for tutorials; Orton-Gillingham lesson planning; and writing and grammar skills.

Once participants have successfully completed this course, they may then begin working on a practicum by making arrangements with the instructor. This practicum will take place throughout the school year and prepare trainees to apply to the Academy of Orton-Gillingham at the Associate level.

For further information and sign-up, please call Friends Academy at 508-999-1356 ext. 1143 or visit the Friends Academy website at www.friendsacademy1810.org.

Hidden in Plain Sight

If you are raising a child, this is an opportunity you do not want to miss. The Bourne Substance Free Coalition, sponsored by the Bourne High School Nye Enrichment Grant, will be hosting a free program called Hidden in Plain Sight at Upper Cape Tech on Thursday, May 12 from 5:00 to 8:00 pm and again on Friday, May 13 from 1:00 to 4:00 pm. Upper Cape Tech is located at 220 Sandwich Road in Bourne, MA.

Hidden in Plain Sight is an interactive education program for parents/guardians that features an exhibit where adults are encouraged to explore and interact with a display designed to resemble a teenager's bedroom. Throughout the exhibit are items that may indicate that a teenager may be involved in some high-risk behavior such as substance abuse, underage drinking, eating disorders, sexual activity and other dangers.

Following an exploration of the mock bedroom exhibit, resources will be provided and there will be an informative presentation by members of the Bourne Substance Free Coalition, which include the Bourne police, the sheriff's office, school personnel, therapists and other members of the community.

There is no charge to attend this program. Refreshments will be served.

Please RSVP the number of people attending (names not needed) to Elizabeth Griffin, Upper Cape Tech, 508-759-7711 ext. 248 / egriffin@uppercapetech.org or Rachel Turner, Bourne High School, 508-759-0670 / rturner@bourneps.org.

No youth will be admitted to this event.

Mattapoisett Congregational Church Rummage Sale

On Saturday, May 7 from 9:00 am to noon, the Parish Hall at the Mattapoisett Congregational Church, 27 Church Street, will be open with gently used men's, women's and children's clothing for sale at bargain prices. Also available will be shoes, hand bags, belts, hats, scarves and ties. In addition, there will be books and domestic linens: sheets, pillowcases, blankets, bedspreads, towels and tablecloths. Donations will be accepted, mornings only, until Thursday, May 5. Come early for a good selection.

Blessing of the Animals

People of all faiths are invited to a special Blessing of the Animals Saturday Service at 5:00 pm on May 7. The service will be held at The First Congregational Church of Marion Community Center, 144 Front Street (rear of parking lot).

Friendly and well-behaved animals are welcome to attend the service officiated by Rev. Liz Brimm of Mattapoisett. Animals must be under control on leashes or in carriers. If you are not able to bring your animal to the service, you are invited to bring a photo to represent your pet. Children can bring a favorite stuffed animal.

The Missions and Outreach Committee is asking those who attend the service to bring dog or cat food to be donated to Damien's Pantry in Wareham. Pets are an important part of people's lives, and financial situations sometimes make it hard to provide for their pet's needs.

The mood of these Saturday Services is upbeat and engaging. Casual dress is encouraged. Song lyrics are projected on a screen so that the congregation can enjoy the contemporary music.

Please join us each Saturday at 5:00 pm at The First Congregational Church of Marion Community Center, 144 Front Street (rear of parking lot). In addition, each Sunday at 10:00 am there is a service in the Sanctuary located at 28 Main Street.

Share the Harvest

Join area Lions Clubs and YMCA Southcoast for a "Share the Harvest" event on May 21 from 9:00 am to 12:00 pm. Help fill local food pantries by planting seeds, transplanting seedlings and harvesting vegetables. All ages are welcome. Free registration on site the day of the event. T-shirts, hamburgers, hot dogs, soda while they last. Located at 276 Gulf Road, South Dartmouth.

I Found the Aardvark!

Each week, hidden somewhere in the pages of The Wanderer is a tiny drawing of an aardvark. The little guy you are looking for looks exactly like the one pictured above (but don't put down this page as your answer, there's another one hidden somewhere in this issue).

Once you find the aardvark you can submit your answer online and if you are right you will get Aardvark Points! You can then use these points to get cool Aardvark Prizes!

To enter visit: www.wanderer.com and Click on I Found the Aardvark

In the April 28, 2016 issue the Aardvark was on page 52!
